

JOIN THE JOURNEY TO END HUNGER WITH ONEXONE'S MILLION MEALS MOVEMENT
#OXOMillionMeals

(FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – MARCH 2014) – ONEXONE was founded under the philosophy that every single life is precious and that as individuals we can make a profound difference in the life of another human being, one by one. United to improve the lives of children in North America and around the world, ONEXONE is calling upon humanitarians to join the plight to end hunger in North America at the Inaugural Million Meals Movement on Friday, May 23, 2014.

Designed to set a new benchmark in the fight against hunger, the Million Meals Movement represents a coming together of local volunteers, youth, corporate partners and like-minded individuals committed to affecting change. With this year's proceeds benefitting the ONEXONE and Simple Plan Foundations, the movement will kick start the community-based initiative and journey of eventually packing one million meals for children in need across North America. Sodexo, world leader in quality of life services, who serve 1 million customers daily, has joined the movement by providing meals that will be packed and distributed in Toronto and Montreal.

After packaging meals at INK Entertainment venue Kool Haus, the day will cap off with a star-studded concert produced by Live Nation including multi-platinum band, Simple Plan, reggae-pop band MAGIC!, and "Alone Again" breakout star, Alyssa Reid. Rapper and humanitarian Cardinal Offishall will also take the stage as ONEXONE's musical ambassador, a unique role committed to helping the cause. Complete with a red carpet and all-star Canadian talent, the Million Meals Movement hopes to not only alleviate hunger across North America, but also spread lesser-known facts: just $1 can provide a child with a healthy breakfast, which positively impacts learning, creativity, test grades, and even attendance.

"It's time we bring the discussion of food insecurity in Canada to the forefront," says Joey Adler, Founder and Chair of ONEXONE. "The idea of not having a meal to eat is a very serious reality for many Canadian families. There is no reason why hunger should exist, and ONEXONE is inviting everyone to take a stand and help make a difference by joining the movement to end hunger."

In addition to initiatives operating around the world, ONEXONE has provided over 500,000 nutritious meals to over 4,000 Canadian children in need through their School Breakfast Program. Spearheaded by entrepreneur and modern advocate, Joey Adler, and supported by Pepsi, Sodexo and De Beers, ONEXONE hopes to start a large-scale movement against hunger in North America. Be part of the solution at the Sony Centre on Friday, May 23, 2014 and join ONEXONE in the fight against hunger! ONEXONE's domestic agenda concentrates on feeding at-risk children. Hunger is an increasing epidemic amongst children, inspiring a domino effect that threatens young generation's physical health, mental health, behaviour, and education. MAGIC!

It's as if there was a divine plan or universal synergy fusing the right elements together at the right time for the right situation. That's the feeling Grammy Award-winning songwriter and producer Nasri experienced the first time MAGIC! jammed. During a writing session in 2012, he heard collaborator and guitarist Mark Pelli strum a reggae-tinged riff, and something clicked. Soon after that initial jam, drummer Alex Tanas and bassist Ben Spivak joined the fold as the quartet entered a Los Angeles studio to record its full-length 2013 debut. There weren't any boundaries or rules. It was all about following that collective muse. The first single "Rude" coasts from a Jamaican guitar twang and danceable beat into a downright irresistible refrain. At the same time, the singer's cheeky storytelling pops out vividly. Elsewhere, "No Evil" builds up into an anthemic chant, while "Let Your Hair Down" is meant to get bodies grooving. As one half of the in-demand writing and production duo The Messengers, Nasri has penned music for everybody from Justin Bieber, Pitbull to Chris Brown and Christina Aguilera. He garnered a Grammy Award in the category of "Best R&B Album" for Chris Brown's F.A.M.E. in 2012. However, he's formally embarked on a new phase in his already illustrious career.

Alyssa Reid

In the fall of 2009, in a somewhat ironic twist of fate, Alyssa Reid was discovered by her record label through a Youtube performance that she posted on her own interpretation of the Justin Bieber hit, "One Less Lonely Girl", written from a girls perspective and re-titled "One More Lonely Boy". The reworked song attracted over 200,000 Youtube hits and resulted in her signing with Wax Records. Her breakthrough pop debut, 2011's The Game, yielded the million-selling global single "Alone Again", and the gold-certified title-track featuring Snoop Dogg. Her sophomore album, "Time Bomb" featuring tracks "Satisfaction Guaranteed" and "Hurricane" was released in February 2014, to widespread praise.
